Ford Sterling and Polly Moran are seen in "The Hunt" and keep spectators in roars of laughter.

Wednesday's feature offering will be "On the Edge of the Abyss," an Ince production with Mary Boland, Willard Mack and Frank Mills in the leading parts. The play is of a lighter order and deals with society life.

The big four act comedy, "A Submarine Pirate," will be the comedy hit of the year. Sid Chaplin is cast for the leading role.

The beautiful dramatic masterpiece, "The Life of Our Saviour," is being shown at the Orpheum theater today in seven reels, all of which are magnificently hand colored. This pro-

Bubbling over with merriment and clean wholesome fun, the Billy Osman Musical Comedy Company opened a week's engagement at the Odeon yesterday to a large and appreciative audience. Frequent outbursts of applause plainly indicated that this clever organization in introductory, "King of Zu Zu Land," was making good in no uncertain terms.

Carrying its own special scenery, with a chorus of pretty and stunningly costumed girls, good singers and clever comedians the Osman company leaves little to be desired. The show is full of catchy and tuneful song hits, clever acting and bright, snappy comedy. H. J. Pate, the basso, has to respond to encores well deserved as his voice has real quality. The Osman quartet makes a decided hit. Thomas McCracken, the comedian of the company, certainly works his number to perfection. His work throughout is gilt-edged, getting laughs in his own quiet way. Nellie Osman knows how to sing and win her audience and working in conjunction with Barbara Gerst and a well trained chorus, she puts her part over in clever fashion.

There will be an entire change of program tomorrow afternoon when this clever company will present for the first time in Clarksburg the musical comedy, "Two Royal Tramps."

David Belasco, in conjunction with the Frohman Stock Company, has just produced in Stamford, Conn., "Okla-homa," by George Scarborough. The play tells the story of a beautiful Indian girl in love with a rascally army lieutenant, from whom she is rescued by an Indian agent, also in love with her. The story is said to be a thrilling one. Lenore Ulrich plays the role of the Indian girl, Lowell Sherman that of the lieutenant and John Milner that of the hero. Others in the play are William Courtleigh and Isabel O'Madigan.

Standing room at a premium for all three shows yesterday was the start that the Palace made with its musical comedy of the better sort.

The "Honey Moon Girls" were by the unanimous acclaim of the audience declared one of the best musical comedies that has been brought to the city and there is no question but that if the succeeding bills are anywhere near the quality of the initial performance, "Who's Who?" the Palace is due to become one of the most popular resorts in the city.

The company has eighteen persons and every one of them is talented to a degree that is remarkable. Miss Pearl Fallner, who has the part of the daughter, Alice Holmes, is a pretty and sweet little girl. The plot of the play is one that involves the principals in the most ludicrous and amusing situations and brings big applause. The chorus sings well and is roundly encored.

Tomorrow the same company will present "The Girl That's All the Candy." The picture program for today includes a three part Broadway Star feature entitled "His Golden Grain," presenting six stars from the Vitaphone studio; a one act drama, "Tony and Marie," and a comedy with Bud and Shorty in "Nearly a Bride."

D. W. Griffith's production, "The Penitents," now showing at the Bijou, is being witnessed by large crowds of the most intelligent people of Clarksburg, including clergymen, professors and scholars, who pronounced it in a

Writes Burke's Drug Store
Remarkable Praise of Nerv-Worth.

Is the reader troubled with any ailments of a nervous origin or has he a relative or friend so troubled? In either case it is a duty to read and profit by the following statement, just made over his own signature by F. C. Merriman, of Adamston, this state.

"Burke Drug Store—My nerves were weak and shaky and I had to be very careful in the morning what I'd eat. Sleepless nights. Some bloating. Felt tired in the morning when I'd get up. Not much energy or ambition. Nature called me often during the night, and I had to get up five or six times. Did not care if I did anything or not. Very despondent at times. I hated to go to work as I did not feel able.

"I have taken one bottle of Nerv-Worth. My nerves are better. Not near so shaky. I eat what I care to eat and it doesn't bother me. Have tested Nerv-Worth in that direction and have eaten things I would not dare to touch before and it didn't hurt me one bit. Sleep very good. No bloating. I feel refreshed in the morning. Get up feeling entirely different than I did. I do recommend Nerv-Worth to my friends as it's given me perfect satisfaction.

(Signed) "F. C. MERRIMAN."

There is nothing to add to this strong praise. Only remember that Burke's Drug Store sells and guarantees this world's greatest nerve tonic. Ask for sample dose.—Advertisement.

Large audiences were pleased and delighted with the musical farce, "Nobody Home," presented at two performances Monday at the Robinson Grand theater. It was quite a treat for local theater goers because they had not seen a stage production for two or three months.

"Nobody Home," is by Paul Rubens and Jerome Kern. The lyrics are naturally in the story, which is told and sung in a setting of surroundings with harmonious music and songs that fit in the situation and are not dragged in by the heels.

Everything in the entertainment is along new ideas, even to the scenery and costumes, which were designed by Elsie De Wolfe, and are wonderful combinations of color and artistic effect. The dance numbers are the last word in modern dancing, and the song numbers will have everybody whistling. The most likeable features are "In Arcady," "Bed, Wonderful Bed," "Any Old Night," "The San Francisco Fair," "Keep Moving," "The Magic Melody" and "Why Take a Sandwich to a Banquet."

Mr. Slocum has provided a cast of extraordinary quality with many Broadway favorites, including Percival Knight, who created the princ-

Also a bevy of beautiful American girls who sang and danced were a delight to the eye.

A mining camp romance is embodied in the Universal subject, "The Wise Man and the Fool," made by the Lynn Reynolds company, and featuring Myrtle Gonzalez. The title is from a parable contained in a book given a young engineer by the girl the mine owner hopes to be his daughter-in-law. Supporting in this are Fred Church as the engineer, Val Paul as the mine owner's son, and Alfred Allen as the owner.

OIL AND GAS
DEVELOPMENT
OF TRI-STATELatest Reports of Operations in West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Ohio.

In the Dorseyville field in Allegheny county, Pa., Alexander Walley drilled his well on the McCorkle farm a little deeper into the lower pay last Saturday afternoon and increased its production from 15 to 25 barrels an hour. The first twenty hours after drilling it deeper the well placed 400 barrels to its credit.

In the northern end of the development the National Oil and Gas Company is drilling at thirty-one feet in the Stevenson farm and expects to get the pay at thirty-four feet. The same company's No. 7 on the Robinson farm is due to get the sand the latter part of this week. The Rushville Drilling Company is due in the Third sand at its No. 2 on the Seibert farm.

Near Whipple station, Beaver county, G. L. Black and Company have completed a test on the Ruby farm and it is a duster. In the Taylorstown district, Washington county, the Washington Oil Company has drilled in No. 6 on the McManus farm and it is producing ten barrels a day.

On Big run of Sycamore creek, Smithfield district, Roane county, W. Va., the South Penn Oil Company has now drilled its No. 10 on the S. W. Seargent farm through the Big Injun sand and it is a light pumper. On Laurel creek, Spencer district, the same company's No. 3 on the C. and C. Short farm is good for five barrels a day from the Big Injun sand.

On Bartholomew run, Mannington district, Marion county, the Hope Natural Gas Company has drilled a test on the J. M. Campbell farm into the Big Injun and the hole has filled up 1,400 feet with fluid. On Hushers run, Clay district, Ritchie county, Lambert Brothers drilled their test on the Dodd farm through the Squaw sand and found nothing. A fair gas pressure was developed in the Big Injun sand.

The Reno Oil Company drilled its test on the J. T. Huges farm, located on Middle Island creek, Union district, Tyler county, through the salt sand and has a duster. On Worthington creek Clay district, Wood county, A. J. Hoopengartner's test on the Elmer Brown farm came in a duster and has been abandoned. On Indian creek, Murphy's district, Ritchie county, the Wycoff Oil Company has drilled a test on the W. B. Martin farm to a depth of 1,150 feet and has shut down. Nothing had been found up to the time drilling was suspended.

On Tackett run, Union district, Pleasants county, the Pleasants County Oil Company is drilling a test on the M. E. Kidder farm. In Flashing creek in the Big Injun sand development in Green district, Wetzel county, the Wetzel Oil Company is due in the Big Injun sand at its test on the B. Midcap farm. On Biff run, McElroy district, Tyler county, the American Oil Development Company has made the location for a test on the Marion Spencer farm. In the Weir sand development on Blue creek, Elk district, Kanawha county, the South Penn Oil Company gave its No. 6 on the W. A. MacCorkle farm a shot and increased its production from fifteen to sixty barrels the ensuing twenty-four hours.

Southernmost Ohio.

On the Ohio side in the deep sand territory in the Junction City district, Jackson township, Perry county, the Luper Oil Company has a fair pumper at its No. 4 on the H. and O. E. Ryan farm. The first twenty-four hours after it was drilled through the Clinton sand it produced thirty-five barrels. This location is 2,000 feet east of production.

In the shallow sand territory in the Chester Hill district, Wesley township, Washington county, J. T. Dillon and Company drilled No. 4 on the Charles L. Norman farm through the Payne sand and it is a thirty barrels producer. The size of this well is many times larger than the average in that locality. In Union township, Morgan county, Ralston and Maryland drilled No. 10 on the J. J. McCarty farm through the Berea grit and have a fifteen barrel pumper.

In the Reese Run district, Independence township, Washington county, the Reno Oil Company is drilling No. 7 on the Beckert heirs farm from the Salt sand to the lower formations. In the Corning district, Monroe township, Perry county, James Jenkins is drilling No. 23 on the William Fisher farm. In the northeast quarter of section 23, Green township, Harrison county, Shreve, Hedges and Company are starting a test on the J. W. Rife farm.
